たなばた

たなばた is a traditional Japanese event which is held on July 7th. There is a myth surrounding たなばた. There was a man named ひこぼし and a woman named おりひめ. おりひめ made very beautiful clothes. They were very hardworking, but after they got marriage, they stopped working. A god got angry and he separated them across the Milky Way. Then, the god promised he would allow them to see each other once a year (July 7th) if they worked hard again, so they see each other in July 7th. Based on this story, people write a wish on たんざく (paper), which they hang on bamboo.

にほんのなつやすみ

なつやすみ (summer vacation) usually was from the 20th of July to the 31st of August, but recently this is changing. Schools didn't have air conditioners before, but each local government equipped air conditioners in schools nowadays. That's why they believe a long vacation is no longer needed. The length of なつやすみ depends on where you are. For example, なつやすみ of schools in the city of Fukuoka is from the 22nd of July to the 27th of August. Children also have to work on a lot of homework. It may include writing diaries, writing an essay, observing flowers, or making something like a piggy bank. What do you think about it?
